BRITAIN SAYS NO TO PLEA OF U.S. TO ALLOW SHIP SEARCH

Unable To Agree To Washington's Dry Enforcement Plan

POSITION DEFINED

London Doing All Possible To Prevent Violation

(French Wireless)

Washington, Oct. 17.—President Harding in a letter made public this morning denied that the United States was pursuing a watchful waiting policy in the seizure of contraband liquor situation.

The British Government has made official representations to the government of the United States stating that although willing to assist the American government in the suppression of contraband liquor it cannot agree to the search of its vessels which the government of the United States recently proposed.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 17.—Reuter learns that after much discussion between the Foreign Office, Colonial Office and the Board of Trade in the proposed Anglo-American co-operation with regard to the smuggling of alcoholic liquors, the British policy has been framed on the following lines.

Britain sympathises in the desire to prevent in every way breaches of the American law from British Colonies.

Indeed, months ago instructions were given that irregularities should not be permitted.

Orders were given to officials with a view to preventing further transfers of American vessels to the British flag pending a complete investigation.

If, in spite of these precautions, a fictitious owner secures registry proceedings would be taken and the ship would be subject to forfeiture.

The American Embassy announces that the sale of intoxicating loquors is prohibited on ships in American territorial waters from October 17 and that the provisions of the Prohibition Act are applicable to ships leaving foreign ports after October 21 on entering territorial waters.

Prohibition does not apply to foreign vessels passing through the Panama Canal which are not touching an American port.

It is noteworthy that the foregoing does not mention the prohibition of the storage of liquor on foreign vessels which was the subject of the recent Daugherty ruling.

Reuter understands that the British note mentioned yesterday is a reply to the suggestion made by the United States months ago that Britain might assist the United States in stopping the liquor traffic by taking certain precautions at British ports. It does not refer to the Daugherty ruling.

A Romantic Trek From The Land of The Midnight Sun Through The Heart Of Asia, The Fantastic Land of Mongolia, And Mysterious Thibet To Shanghai.

IX—MONGOLIAN HORSE RACING

By Larry Lehrbas

Pounding drums .... spinning prayer wheels .... long, rusty trumpets blown by little boy lamas in scarlet .... hardy men with leathery faces under shaggy fur caps .... married women in gay colors and with elaborate head-dresses .... hundreds of ponies stamping and milling about ....guttural oaths from camel drivers .... shrill chanting from red-garbed lamas .... horses .... and more horses .... the last long trumpet call.

Race meetings on the wild, wind-swept steppes of Mongolia are much more interesting and colorful than the Saturday afternoon affairs at Klangwan or Shanghai. Instead of twenty or thirty ponies ridden by gentleman jockeys in circus tights hundreds of ponies mill about on the outskirts of the amphitheater—merely a big stretch of prairie roped off by imaginary lines drawn by the lamas in charge but enforced by clouts of a whip if an over-zealous lad steps over the line. Which ponies are to run only the owners know until the parade—a picturesque procession of horseflesh and grinning boy and girl jockeys—winds through the surrounding tents and crowd, and then with a shout stretches like a gigantic rubber band as the ponies leap into the race.

The Mongolians are born to the saddle. They are rocked to sleep by night on ponies' backs, eat while riding, live by day as though an integral part of the bronco itself. From the time the little desert urchins are able to be lifted to the back of a pony they spend their hours awake on, or near, their ponies. At race meetings, which are held often in a formal, picturesque fashion, as well as being daily events two youngsters meet on the trail from yurt to yurt, it is the boys and girls of Mongolia who are the jockeys.

COSTUMES—BY ADAM

The little jockeys may use their own judgment in selecting a riding habit. Some wear a clout, some wear their daddy's or mama's cast-off clothes, and many wear costumes after the style set by Mr. Adam in prehistoric days. They should worry whether or not their jackets are of the proper violet tint with egg-shell colored bands. Some on saddles, some riding bareback, they form in a procession at the head of the course and, led by a big lama in red, ride chatting and laughing through the gay mob of watchers, encircle the yurts nearby, and then with a shout the red lama dashes off to the side and the parade swishes out like a popping whip and the boys and girls thunder off toward the turning point. The length of the race depends on the natural landmarks in the vicinity. The ponies race for a sand hill, circle it, and thunder back with flying hoofs. And then they race again, and again, until darkness settles over the yurts.

As each race ends the victor, wreathed in smiles (and generally little else) is led by the red lama past the admiring throng with that same show of laudable pride displayed by owners of Shanghai race ponies leading their winners past the grandstand as the big numbers click in the number racks. After being led before the tent of the Governor of Mongolia the winners in the races Serge and his companions watched were paraded before the chief lama's tent and handed a bowl of mare's milk. Another bowl was poured over the head of the victorious pony. Simply good joss. And then the winner rode his pony back to join his family and lord it over the kids from the next yurt.

Mongolians are inherently fond of racing. Often on the yak-tail trail, Serge and others in the cavalcade were approached by little boys and girls, or their fathers—and in one case, a married woman—who, after swiftly appraising the racing points of the ponies the Russians rode, challenged them to a race across the steppes. Before Serge fully appreciated the dare-devilish riding of the young Mongols he accepted such a challenge. Once, and only once, for the young Mongol tore off across the prairie at break-neck speed and Serge's mount clattering along behind in pursuit until, excited and unmanageable, the pony tossed the rider into a convenient sand heap. When the young Mongol saw what had happened he stopped and rounded up Serge's pony. And that night in the yurt village they camped in Serge was jollied until the flies sang their usual nightly lullaby.

MONGOL WRESTLERS

"Rassling," among the Mongolians, comes next to racing as an outdoor sport. The young Mongols begin tussling with each other as soon as they are able to crawl around on their hands and knees.

American Woman's Club Country Fair To Open At The Town Hall Today

Costumes, Products And Scenes From Every Portion Of Homeland Will Be Displayed In Varied Array In Numerous Booths And Colorful Exhibits

The American Woman's Club Country Fair will be opened by Mr. Edwin S. Cunningham, American Consul-General, at the Town Hall today at 11:30 a.m., and from that time on there will be something doing every minute until the close of the Fair Saturday midnight.

The Town Hall is elaborately bedecked in the colors of the Club, yellow and green, and each booth is decorated in the colors of the section represented. Young ladies in costumes will preside over these booths from which will be sold products and specialties peculiar to the particular states represented.

Upon entering the Fair, perhaps one's first glance would be upon the beautiful Chinese pagoda in the center of the room, which is the American-Chinese booth of which Mrs. R. A. Parker has charge and from which will be sold wonderful Chinese embroideries, laces and other Chinese articles. Also orders will be taken for rugs from a reliable Chinese manufacturer.

To the right as one enters will be found the Northwestern Division's booth in a real log cabin. Mrs. Paul Page Whitham is in charge of this booth and will sell food products of the Northwest such as salmon, apples, cheese, etc.

Then there is the Southwestern Division, of which Mrs. A. M. Shelton is Chairman. This booth is most elaborately decorated in California poppies, evergreens, marigolds, and palms. Attached to this booth is a bar where soft drinks will be sold, as well as other refreshments. Also beautiful hand-embroidered gentlemen's and ladies' handkerchiefs will be on sale at this booth.

Next is the Filipino Booth, of which Mrs. Squires is Chairman, from which will be sold Filipino embroideries, jewelry and superior cigars. Also Filipino hats will be found here.

EASTERN DIVISION

The New Amsterdam or Atlantic Division will have two booths under the supervision of Mrs. J. T. Hammond, the Chairman. One will be a Dutch booth with home-made sweets and an American soda fountain and the other a Quaker Booth, the latter being donated by the Standard Oil Company and is most unique in that the roof is made of dust pans which are made of old empty Socony kerosene cans.

The New England Section, of which Mrs. P. A. Sargent is Chairman has a most attractive booth decorated with hollyhocks, a witches' caldren, pumpkins, n'everything in the way of Hallowe'en and Thanksgiving novelties, place cards, etc. From this booth will be sold books also. There will be also Salem witch dolls for sale and a New England Colonial doll boudoir lamp made of old rose taffeta and gold lace which will be raffled off, as well as a crazy quilt which was made in Daniel Webster's home.

The raffling will take place on Saturday, the last day of the fair. This booth will also check parcels for 10 cents each and will have charge of the cloak room checking. Puritan costumed ladies will preside over this booth.

The Southern Division to be known as "Dixie," of which Mrs. Edwin S. Cunningham is Chairman is one of the attractive of the many booths. It is decorated with sunflowers, weeping willows and American beauty roses. From Dixie will be sold real live chickens in the coop by the old darky who helped get the chickens. There will also be hundreds of negro dolls for sale, beautiful sofa pillows, babies clothes, etc. A great deal of credit is due Mrs. Himrod, the Vice Chairman as well as the Lewis Nurseries towards making this booth a success.

MIDDLE WEST DIVISION

The Middle West Section, under the leadership of Mrs. R. H. Hudson, has also a very interesting booth most elaborately decorated with balloons. In this booth may be secured corsage bouquets, Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy dolls (which Dr. Fearn states were born at her sanitarium) which will be sold for $4.000 each and will make attractive Xmas presents for the kiddies. Also there will be a real Italian marble statue "The Boy and the Thorn" raffled off which was donated by Miss Emma Mitchell, as well as a beautiful hand decorated doll's bed and dresser set donated by Messrs. Tai Chong and Co. to be raffled off, and also a lovely large doll house donated by Mrs. Gardner Crane.

The Hawaiian Section has a most charming booth, Mrs. R. H. Turner, being in charge, who will display novelties peculiar to the tropics.

The most splendiferous of all the multitudinous attractions that have been gathered from all parts of the world, from every climate and every clime, at a cost so absolutely and bewilderingly staggering that the imagination trembles and shivvers from merely thinking of it, and at an outlay of effort by the side of which the building of the great wall was but a summer afternoon's holiday, for the American County fair which opens today at the Town Hall under the auspices of the American Woman's Club for the benefit of the new building fund, will be the cafeteria, by the side of which all the cateries in the world are all same Mother Hubbard's empty cupboard in comparison, and in which will be found everything in the line of a palate vamp that ever stewed in an oven or baked in a skillet or boiled on a spit, including real, genuine, baked beans for the Bostonese and fried music that masqueraded as a yellow legged Plymouth Rock until his decapitation by one of the missies of the southern section, each and every one of which (the edibles, not the missies) will be daintily arranged and placarded with a price tag so that you will know where to get what you want and how much it will set you back, with nothing for you to do except waggle your molars for all you are worth, and to bear in mind the while that every mouthful you masticate means another brick in that new clubhouse and also to remember that if you 'blong reel Melican you'll eat till you bust.

CHINA'S TRADE UNAFFECTED BY U. S. TARIFF LAW

Bulk Of Country's Exports Are Not Affected By New Measure

China will be less affected than any other country by the new American tariff law, according to an announcement issued yesterday from the office of the American Commercial Attache. This announcement sets forth that the chief exports from China hit under the new tariff are egg products, peanut and soya bean oil, peanuts and walnuts which constitute less than a fifth of China's annual exports to the United States.

The Commercial Attache's statement reads:

"There is evidently considerable misapprehension as to the effects of the new American tariff upon China's exports to the United States. This tariff will probably have less unfavorable effects upon China's trade with the United States than upon that of other countries. The bulk of China's exports to America in aggregate valuation comprises raw cotton, silk, tea, hides, undressed furs, fur skins, carpet wool (used for manufacture of carpets), wood oil, and sausage casings, which are continued on the free list, constituting in the China's exports to the United aggregate about 70 percent of States.

Hair nets, strawbraid, feathers and down are admitted upon the same duties as obtained in the 1913 Tariff. These constitute about 10 percent of the trade, hence an aggregate of 60 percent of China's trade with the United States remains unaffected by the tariff. The duty on manufactured silk including pongees, is increased from 45 percent to 55 percent which will not materially affect this trade. Prepared bristles are advanced in duties from 7 cents to 8 cents per pound which should not seriously affect exports of this article.

"An addition in the ad valorem duty of from 60 percent to 90 percent on laces and from 60 percent to 75 percent on embroideries will probably not materially affect importations of the Chinese products.

"The commodities which will be most seriously affected are egg products, peanut and soya bean oils, peanuts and walnuts. The trade in these products under the new tariff will undoubtedly be reduced to very small proportions. However, it must be borne in mind that they constitute less than 20 percent of China's trade with the United States."

NEAR EASTERN PREPARATION COST BRITAIN £2,500,000

Estimates Exaggerated, Says War Office Chief

A FRENCH MOVE

Paris Suggested As Best Place For Conference

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 18.—Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, the Secretary of State for War, speaking in London yesterday stated that contrary to the exaggerated estimates the actual cost of the Government's preparations in the Near East was under £2,500,000.

Sir Robert Sanders announced at a meeting at Bridgwater yesterday that he had tendered his resignation as Under-Secretary of State for War but had been asked not to take further action until Thursday's meeting. He intends to stand as a Conservative candidate in the next election.

Paris, Oct. 16.—It is semi-officially stated that the Government, while accepting the principle of a discussion by experts for the modification of the Treaty of Sevres, expresses the opinion that the Turkish Nationalist leaders might be led by the innate distrust of orientals to imagine that an inter-Allied Conference was designed to prejudice Ottoman interests, therefore, the selection of London would import a new difficulty into already complicated negotiations hence the French Government proposes that the meeting should be held in Paris where the preliminary settlement of the Near East problem was undertaken in March last.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 17.—Reuter learns that Britain has suggested to France and Italy that there should be a meeting of Allied experts in London as soon as possible to discuss necessary modifications of the financial and economic clauses of the Treaty of Sevres. There is no question of a conference. The meetings would be quite informal and no definite decisions would be taken. Italy has agreed to be represented at the meeting but France has not yet replied.

Paris, Oct. 17.—The Italian newspapers announce that the British Government has proposed an urgent meeting of a commission of experts at London to prepare the economic and financial clauses of the new Turkish peace treaty.

It appears that there is no objection to the meeting of this commission provided that the place chosen cannot offend any susceptibilities.

Paris, Oct. 17.—The Allied missions left on Monday for Chorlu, Kirk Kilisse, Adrianople, Uzunkoepri, Keshan and Rodosto.

In Thrace the situation created by the disorganised Greek Army and the panic-stricken population, who are crowding the roads and railway-stations and pillaging and burning the villages, makes it imperative for the Allies to occupy the district as soon as possible.

Sir Charles Harington has stated that aeroplane reconnaissance over Eastern Thrace has shown no trace of any burning villages.

Paris, Oct. 17.—According to the Etoile Belge the international situation, especially in the Near East, ought to be cleared up before the meeting of the Brussels Conference.

If a general election takes place in Britain, the Conference would not be held until after the election.

Paris, Oct. 17.—M. Franklin Bouillon in the course of conversations with journalists stated: "It was the Greeks who set fire to Smyrna as well as the whole of Anatolia."

Counsel Asks Discharge In Bankruptcy Petition For Mr. A. E. S. Thompson

Attorneys For Hongkong Bank Address Judge Grain In British Supreme Court

Counsel for the Hongkong Bank and James Morrison and Co., and for the bankrupt addressed the Court yesterday in the bankruptcy case of Mr. A. E. S. Thompson, in which the latter has applied for an order of discharge before the British Supreme Court.

The application was heard by Judge Peter Grain and was opposed by Mr. G. H. Wright, counsel for the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank and James Morrison and Company of London,, the principal creditor, whose claim amounts to Tls. 700,000. Mr. R. G. Macdonald represented Mr. Thompson and Mr. A. L. Dickson, the Official Receiver, also appeaded to oppose the application.

Mr. Turner, chartered accountant, examined by Mr. Dickson, stated that the bankrupt was insolvent in June, 1920, taking the claim of James Morrison and Company into account. It was impossible from the books to ascertain when Thompson received notice of claim. In the ordinary course when claims are made out details are sent out. He could fix the date on which claims were made but could not say from the books when the bankrupt received them. Witness had considerable experience in auditing books of firms and did auditing work for many large firms in England.

Examined by Mr. Wright, witness admitted that the bankrupt kept such books as are usual and proper, but they were nevertheless to a great extent unintelligible.

Is that a very usual position in which to find a firm's books?—In Shanghai it is a very usual thing. In Shanghai we have to ask questions.

Do I understand from you that the books if properly kept, should in your opinion enable you to ascertain the position of the firm without trouble?—Yes? approximately ascertain.

How long did you spend on these books?—About three weeks.

How many times have you asked to see Thompson?—Once. He offered to give me any information, but I did not require it. I have said in my report his accounts were unintelligible until after the examination.

HONGKONG BANK OPPOSES

Mr. Wright, addressing the Court, said he filed a notice in which appeared two grounds in addition to those set out in the Official Receiver's report.

The first was that the bankrupt had continued to trade after knowing himself to be insolvent. Counsel's submission on that point was this. Thompson was insolvent on Mr. Turner's statement as early as June, 1920, and was also insolvent in July, August and September. Mr. Birch, the representative of Messrs. James Morrison and Co., when he came out to Shanghai in August of 1920, went over the whole position with the bankrupt and in particular the question of exchange.

Between October, 1919 and February, 1920 the bankrupt had sent to England piecegoods orders to James Morrison and Co. to the value of round about £300,000, the rate of exchange prevailing then being eight shilling to a tael. The goods had to be manufactured in Manchester and had to be shipped up to the latter part of 1920. In August, 1920 the exchange was a round six shillings and there was already an appreciable loss on these orders on exchange. Mr. Birch pressed the bankrupt to settle for at least £100,000. The reason for that was that the bankrupt had informed him that of the total order at least £100,000 would not be taken up unless exchange improved, and that at six shillings the bankrupt would be entirely wiped out.

He stated that his only chance of maintaining his position was a rise in exchange to seven or eight shillings. Thompson was taken to the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, the Chartered Bank and the Mercantile Bank with a view to getting an expression of opinion and these Banks all gave their opinion that there was more likelihood of a drop and that it was advisable to settle exchange.

DID NOT SETTLE THEN

Thompson, for reasons best known to himself, would not settle this £100,000 at the current rate of exchange, and counsel said that the Court would probably come to the conclusion that his reason for not settling was that he wished to gamble on the possibility of a rise which might put him on his feet. Of course, a settlement at that time at six shillings would have resulted in a loss of Tls. 80,000, apart from the loss on the resale of the goods.

Counsel submitted that a trader had no right under such circumstances to behave as Thompson did. On the assumption that he was insolvent in August and September 1920, his duty was to call his creditors together and with their assistance arrive at the best policy to adopt in regard to this very substantial order still outstanding. It was for this reason that Thompson, by not settling at a time when he was insolvent, had continued to trade knowing himself to be insolvent, which was a crime under section 26 of the Bankruptcy Act.

The duty of the bankrupt was perfectly clear, and counsel quoted authority to support his contention. Justice MacKay had held that when bankrupt knew that he was insolvent and continued to trade he was doing it at the risk of his creditors, and this was an offence. When a bankrupt continued to trade knowing that his assets do not amount to ten shillings on the pound, he has no right to do so. When the bankrupt knew that by setting exchange at the time he was asked by Mr. Birch he would be wiped out, his duty was to do so. His Lordship would see that by trading after the exchange had dropped it was at the risk of the creditors. Exchange was ultimately settled at 3s. 4d. involving a total loss in exchange of over three lakhs of tails.

CHARGES NEGLECT

If his Lordship did not agree with that, counsel stated that he would say further that the bankrupt's conduct and his actions at that time in not setting exchange made him guilty of culpable neglect of his business affairs.

One of the grounds of his application to oppose the discharge was that the bankruptcy was brought about by rash and hazardous speculation, and in support of that he mentioned that the bankrupt did not engage a compradore, which he considered a rash and hazardous thing to do for a merchant.

Secondly, that the bankrupt had a capital of Tls. 50,000 and placed orders round about £300,000. No exchange was settled at the time that these orders were taken, and the bankrupt could not have taken particular pains to satisfy himself as to the re liability and bona fides of these 60 odd dealers. Out of 60 and 70 dealers only three took up their contracts.

The position the parties who were oposing the petition was as follows: Either the petiton was to be refused, or was to be allowed, or was to be allowed subject to conditions. The official receiver was concerned almost entirely with the moral aspect of the case while the creditors were concerned more with their money. The official receiver was in Court in the public interest in all bankruptcy matters if the circumstances warrant it with the idea of upholding the credit of the mercantile community.

The Judge: When you say "allowed subject to conditions" do you include under "conditions" suspension for a certain period? No, my Lord. I mean the Court would allow the discharge subject to the condition of payment of part of the bankrupt's earning. I ask your Lordship if you believe that it is a case in the public interest not to refuse the application to grant it under conditions. Your Lordship has seen the proposals that were made to the bankrupt. It is for your Lordship to decide whether those proposals are reasonable or not. We are not here in a vindictive spirit. After all these large sums of money are owing to us, and it does seem to me at any rate altogether reasonable that the bankrupt should not be allowed to leave this Court a free man without any further attempt to pay these debts. It cannot be that a man can become bankrupt for such a large sum of money and secure a complete discharge within 18 months. If that is law it puts a premium on rash and hazardous business.

REPRESENTATIVE SENT

Mr. Charles M. Birch said he came out in August, 1920, as the representative of James Morrison and Company. He did not come out on any special errand, he said, but was instructed to see that the transaction with A. E. S. Thompson and Company went through. The principal business, he said, was orders for piece goods and sundries for three hundred pounds sterling.

Mr. Birch said he asked Mr. Thompson to see what he could do in view of the difficulties he had cabled threatened him.

"We had warnings in June, 1920, before I left London of threatening trouble," Mr. Birch said. "Exchange was rising when I left. About the end of September six shillings could be obtained for ten months up until June 1921. When the orders were sent to us the rate was 8 shillings. At the time that I arrived there was a considerable drop in exchange. There was already a loss in August of Tls. 87,000. One of the first things I did was to go into the position of Mr. Thompson's dealers. I took the contracts to the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank and asked for an opinion. Five hundred thousand pounds was considered bad. I wanted to establish Mr. Thompson's position. I accepted his statement as being correct.

"Mr. Thompson had Taels 25,000 of his capital left, which however was not liquid. After he refused me an independent audit of his books he gave the estimate of Taels 25,000. Then of course it became apparent that if the £100,000 was bad and would be thrown on Mr. Thompson's shoulders, he could not take up that particular contract for £100,000. After we had cancelled with the manufacturers, the contract for £100,000 remained.

"I asked Mr. Thompson to come and see some of the banks. It seemed to me that he should settle exchange. We went to the Hongkong, Chartered and Mercantile banks. Two of the banks expressed themselves strongly that we should settle. With regard to the settlement in exchange, it would limit the loss to Taels 87,000, which if exchange had gone down, would increase the loss automatically. He seemed to see the force of the point but also seemed to think it would wipe him out. I pressed him for four weeks. He would not settle. He did not until the Fall came. I did not get a positive refusal from him to settle exchange. Exchange was ultimately settled at about 3s. 4d. That made an additional loss to the Taels 87,000, nearly Taels 350,000 over and above it, or Taels 430,000.

The exchange was a direct loss, but a much indirect loss would have been saved by resale. The goods had to be sold at a sacrifice. The actual selling price was one third of the original cost. If exchange had been settled at six shillings, our net loss on the orders of £100,000 would have been reduced to two takhs. As it was we lost five lakhs.

ASKS DISCHARGE

Mr. Macdonald in asking for a discharge of the bankrupt stressed the point that it was due to the action of others that his bankruptcy was due. As regards failure to settle exchange, Mr. Macdonald said it was for the dealers to settle exchange. No one at any time could know what exchange was going to do. At that time the Chartered Bank refused to express their views one way or other. The whole gravaman of the charge was that the bankrupt did not settle exchange.

In any event if his Lordship arrived at the conclusion that Thompson should have settled exchange, what did it then amount to? At its worst this young man, who was under thirty, made an error of judgment in a very difficult financial position. Could it be put higher than that? Error of judgment might not be sufficient. There was no shadow of want of integrity in any shape or form. He had assiduously built up his business from 1915 from small beginnings to a capital of Tls. 50,000. He in June, 1920, noticed there were signs of nervousness in the market and advised Morrison to cancel. What more could any man have done? He had ordered piece goods, and he saw that they could not be taken up and he immediately cabled and warned Morrison what the situation was.

Mr. Macdonald added: "In spite of every precaution which the most experienced business man in Shanghai could have taken he was caught in the maelstrom of financial disaster in Shanghai, which had overwhelmed many of greater standing and experience. He strove to extricate himself from it but his efforts were in vain."

Judge Peter Grain said that he would pass orders within a couple of days.

Hold Further Hearing In Suit Brought By Doctor

Dr. Fresson Testifies In Action Wherein Dr. Martin Claims Fee

In the further hearing yesterday of the suit brought by Dr. Paul Martin against Mr. Pate in the British Supreme Court for fees claimed due for medical attendance on Mrs. Pate, evidence was given by Dr. Henry Fresson.

Mr. F. J. Schuhl appeared for Dr. Martin, and Mr. L. K. Kentwell for the defendant.

Dr. Fresson testified that he had graduated as a doctor of medicine in Paris in 1900. During the War he was consulting medical officer attached to the Fourth and Fifth Armies in France. He came to Shanghai in 1904 and practised here all the time except for the four years he was away at the front: Last year he became President of the Shanghai Medical Society, succeeding Dr. Ransom. The other members of the committee of the Society were Doctors Billinghurst, Campbell, Morris and Neild. The qualification for membership to Society was recognition as a medical practitioner by the member's Consulate.

Mr. Schuhl objected to the questioning. He did not see why so much of the Court's time should be taken up with reference to the Shanghai Medical Society, as the case was one of fees due from Mr. Pate.

The Judge: "Mr. Kentwell desires to show that Dr. Martin was incompetent, and one of the arguments is that he is not a member of this Society. It is in order."

APPLIED TO SOCIETY

Dr. Fresson, in reply to a question as to whether Dr. Martin was a member of the Shanghai Medical Society, stated that Dr. Martin applied in 1915 to become a member and the application was refused on July 2. Continuing, witness said:

"He wrote a letter asking for an opportunity to explain certain charges. On July 14 he was called before the Committee."

The Court remarked that it was once more reviewing the whole controversy. He hoped counsel for the defendant would avoid it.

Mr. Schuhl: "I shall have an opportunity to show why he was not a member. I shall show the spirit to keep him out."

Mr. Kentwell: "Who brought these charges against Dr. Martin? Was it Dr. Ransom?"—"Neither I nor Dr. Ransom spoke on the subject before the Medical Society."

"Have they trained nurses in the General Hospital?"—"My colleagues have always been satisfied with the nurses in the General Hospital. If you give me an opportunity to say so, I am one of the Governors of the General Hospital, and I want to enter the strongest protestation against the term that was used that the operating theater in the General Hospital is a joke."

Mr. Schuhl replied that it was not Dr. Martin who made that remark. In fact when asked whether it was a joke, Dr. Martin denied it in the witness box.

The Judge: "Dr. Martin distinctly denied that it was a joke."

ATTENDED MRS. PATE

Witness further stated that he remembered being called on the night of January 20 to attend on Mrs. Pate, but went the next morning, a Sunday. He found her in a very serious condition with very high fever, between 103 and 104, and she was in a very drowsy state. He added "really her condition seemed extremely serious." He immediately thought that she was suffering from malaria fever and he told Mr. Pate that Mrs. Pate should be removed to hospital as soon as possible and that she should not be allowed to remain in the hotel. Mr. Pate told him that Dr. Martin was attending Mrs. Pate before, and that he had dismissed him. Witness had to ask which physician was attending, according to professional etiquette, and if Dr. Martin was attending he would have asked for a consultation with him. Mrs. Pate was taken to the St. Mary's Hospital, and was examined there very carefully. She was put under an X-Ray test and her liver was examined. Her blood was tested twice, once in the laboratory and once in the Health Office, and in both these tests he found typhoid. He came to the conclusion that it was typhoid. Mr. Pate was under the impression that his wife would have to be operated upon immediately, and the witness had to fight against the possibility of an operation. That was the reason why so many examinations were made by witness. The X-Ray did not reveal anything that required an operation. The blood test was positive and showed typhoid. The fever went on just as in typhoid cases. She was in the hospital for six or seven weeks and recovered gradually and eventually left the hospital.

QUERIES ON TYPHOID

"Is it possible for the temperature to rise in two or three days from 100 to 104?"—"Not in ordinary cases. In typhoid the temperature rises for seven days, then remains stationary for another week and then falls. Of course there are exceptions."

"I want your opinion as to the period of incubation in the case of typhoid. How many days or weeks does it take to show a case of typhoid? Does typhoid spring up in one or two days?"—"It is a disease that takes a number of days to develop. As I told you, it is divided into an ascending stage, a level period and a descending period."

"When you examined Mrs. Pate she must have had it for some time?"—"She must have had it for at least a week or ten days. I cannot speak of what I did not see. When I saw it the disease was in full swing."

"What would her condition be three days previously?"—"Three days previous to when I saw her condition must have been very bad. Her temperature might have been 101 to 103."

"Would you refuse a consultation if your patient makes a request to consult?"—"As long as he is a medical man and is honorable. In fact I am always glad to get a consultation."

"Would you regard morphia or athrophine as a remedy for floating kidney?"——

Mr. Schuhl objected on the ground that it was not a fair question.

The Judge (to witness): "The patient in this case was found in considerable pain. She had high fever. Dr. Martin attended her and administered, morphia and athrophine. Do you think that is a proper treatment?"—"Morphia is good against pain. Of course, if you had a suspicion of a malignant fever coming on you must be very careful about the administration of morphia because in high infectious fever the kidney does not work. Even a small dose of morphia is not eliminated and it acts as poison. In cases of infectious diseases morphia must be handled with the greatest care."

Mr. Kentwell: "Did you inquire into the history of Mrs. Pate's case when you were called from Mr. Pate?"—"Very carefully."

The Judge: "Did you see the prescription either made up or in writing?"—"I simply saw a tube of morphia tablets."

Mr. Kentwell: "Was Mrs. Pate operated upon for a floating kidney?"—"No."

Cross-examination of the witness was taken up by Mr. Schuhl and had not concluded when the Court rose, Mr. Schuhl indicating that he would subject the witness to a cross-examination that would last for some two hours more.

Mr. Schuhl: "Who interpreted the X-Ray test?"—"I interpreted the X-Ray. I did not find from this X-Ray any necessity for performing an operation."

"You know Dr. Lambert who interpreted this film. He is the official who does this particular work. Are you willing to say that he made an interpretation of that film of Mrs. Pate?"—"He only explains what he sees. He does not interpret. He only states that it has a shadow. He only interprets what the X-Ray film shows and nothing more."

"Did he not write in a book in the hospital that the negative did show that Mrs. Pate's film had a shadow on the kidney?"—"You are making a confusion. Dr. Lambert may have said that he saw a shadow, it was not his business to say where it was."

"Did the film show that it was an abnormal kidney?"—"It did not show."

"Was the shadow an abnormal one?"—"It was bigger than in normal persons."

"What did that indicate to you?"—"My interpretation was that it was congested liver and lowered right kidney."

"Is not that a floating kidney?"—"A floating kidney is a floating kidney."

"What is a floating kidney?"—"When it floats."

"Does it not mean that it is out of place?"—"It may be out of place for a lot of causes. If a man or woman has a big liver or a congested liver or a liver that is lower than it should be it presses the kidney and the kidney will show the shadow. You may see the shadow of a lower kidney in the case of an abscess of the kidney. It would be a little lower than usual."

"That would indicate that the kidney was out of place?"—"The shadow was from the intestines."

"Have you any interest in this case? Do you wish to harm Dr. Martin?"—"Nothing at all."

"Have you written any letters to other patients in Shanghai asking them to come and testify in this case?"—"Never."

"Have you ever telephoned?"—"Never."

"Have you ever telephoned to Dr. Hiltner?"—"Never."

Mr. Kentwell said that he telephoned to Dr. Hiltner.

"Did you ever ask Mr. Kentwell to communicate with Dr. Hiltner?"—"Never."

"You say you are President of the Shanghai Medical Society. How many members are there of this Society?"—"About 80."

"Is Dr. Bryson a member of this Society?"—"I do not know."

"Are all the physicians in Shanghai members of this Society?"—"No, not all."

The hearing was adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Obituary

LIEUT.-GENERAL KOJIMA

Tokio, Oct. 18.—Lieut. General Kojima, who has been ill for some time, died this morning.

HOW TO "GROW" A NEW COMPLEXION

These are the days of "hustling." In a week we see and do more than our grandmothers did in a year. We are gradually turning nature to be our servant: we use her great forces against herself. We have conquered sea and sky, now our doctors are fighting not only disease, rejuvenating human beings by the injection of animal glands but as yet, only the few can avail themselves of the treatment.

There is, however, one secret of perpetual youth that is in the reach of everyone. Scientists now realise that the only way of keeping the skin young and fresh is to examine Nature's methods and to find some way of imitating her.

In order to explain the new method of keeping the complexion perpetually youthful, one must understand something of the nature of the skin. A baby's skin is always clear and smooth because the outer layer is always invisibly peeling off, and new layers are forming just as fast underneath, so that the exposed skin is always fresh, unwrinkled and "new."

For the first few years of our lives, this peeling is a purely natural process, but as we grow older, we gradually lose the power of throwing off our old soiled outer skins, so that our complexions become lined and yellow, and the new skin has no chance to show itself.

A few years ago, a scientific chemist realised that a little-known substance called mercolised wax, was exactly what was needed to "keep nature up to the mark." It appears that this substance, which is now universally obtainable gently and painlessly assists nature in throwing off the soiled outer cuticle. The skin is thus perpetually renewed, and its clear youthful complexion can be preserved to any age. (Advt.)

FOWLER, TRADE ENVOY, WILL PUT OUT NEW BOOK

Newly Appointed Commissioner Ten Years In Orient

John A. Fowler, newly commissioned American trade envoy to the Philippines, Siam, Straits Settlements and Indo-China, plans to publish a "commercial handbook" summarising trade conditions in his new territory similar to the book he got out along similar lines after his assignment to similar duty in the Dutch East Indies and British Malaya. The book will be in summarised form and calculated to serve as a guide for American manufacturers and exporters.

Mr. Fowler said the Manila office has been raised from a district division to that of a trade commissioner's station, which will prove of benefit to business men inasmuch as reports from Siam and French Indo-China will be correlated there including information having direct bearing on the Philippines.

"American business men both in China and Japan who desire information of trade value in my territory will be able to obtain facts by applying either to the Commercial Attache's office in Shanghai or to the Trade Commissioners office in Tokio where my preliminary reports will be available as soon as they are released by the Department of Commerce."

Mr. Fowler has spent more than ten years in the Orient and may be regarded as an authority on Oriental trade conditions. He has traveled extensively over his new territory and his conservative estimates and investigations may therefore be regarded as highly authentic.

He will sail from Shanghai on Friday for Manila going by way of Haiphong, Hanoi, Saigon, Singapore, Penang, Bangkok, Batavia, Sourabaya, Maccassar, Sandakan, Zamboanga, Cebu, Iloilo, and expects to arrive at the Philippine capital before Christmas.

American business men desiring to interview Mr. Fowler may arrange an appointment through Mr. Lansing Hoyt in the American Trade Commissioner's office here in the Dollar Building.

Amah And Mistress Accuse Each Other; Case Is Dismissed

Charge and counter-charge of assault by an amah and her mistress were heard at the British Court yesterday when the amah, one Scho Chin, brought action against Mr. R. C. Carter, 7 Soon Dawn Road, before Magistrate G. W. King.

The complainant said the wife of defendant came into the kitchen last Sunday and assaulted her pulling her hair, and that Mr. Carter then came in and struck her, causing her eyes to be blacked. The defendant declared that his wife was not well and that on the date in question he heard her scream and on going to her assistance found the amah kicking Mrs. Carter in the stomach. Mary Noodt, 10 Soon Dawn Road, testified that she went into the kitchen where she saw Mrs. Carter, who had fainted. Her kimono was torn and her hair was pulled down. The amah was not much dishevelled.

The case was adjourned until afternoon for the evidence of a physician as to Mrs. Carter's condition and a certificate was presented at the resumption of the hearing stating that defendant's wife bore marks on her face but that there were no signs of serious injury on other parts of the body.

The complainant did not put in an appearance and the case was dismissed.

TEST AT POLLS IN ENGLAND MAY GO OVER TILL SPRING

M. P. Predicts Surprise In Shape Of Tax Remission

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 18.—A political correspondent declares that the Ministers are making an effort to put off the general election till January owing to the imminent risk of a complete split in the Conservative party and the danger thereby caused to the prospects of Mr. Lloyd George's Government.

Sir Henry Foreman, M.P., speaking at Hammersmith, said that he thought that there would be no election until April and that he had reason to believe that if the present Government should be allowed to proceed, there would be a great surprise in store in the shape of a remission in taxation in the Spring.

(China Press Service)

London, Oct. 17.—Earl Curzon's early morning visit to Lloyd George, this morning, rouses anticipations that the Premier will announce the dissolution of Parliament in his speech at Leeds on Saturday.

It is believed that Mr. Chamberlain and the Premier have arrived at conditions of mutual support.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 17.—Lord Salisbury, addressing the Unionist diehards at Arington House, repudiated the advice of Mr. Austen Chamberlain to support the Coalition which is becoming increasingly unpopular.

The only ground for continuing the Coalition was the Bolshevist bogey. It was absurd to say, he asserted, that the majority of the working class were Bolshevists.

They were hard-headed and patriotic. The Coalition had gone and the Unionists respectfully demanded freedom for their party.

London, Oct. 17.—Leeds will be the scene of Mr. Lloyd George's speech on Oct. 21.

Mr. Winston Churchill's speech at Bristol has been postponed as he is suffering from gastro-enteritis.

London, Oct. 17.—Mr. Cecil Harmsworth has notified his constituency that he is not standing at the next election as he desires to make room for younger men able to take up Parliamentary burdens.

He avows himself a strong supporter of the Premier.

KING LAUDS MISSIONS

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 17.—The King in a message to the Scottish Churches' Missionary Congress at Glasgow today spoke of their noble self-sacrificing work in the mission fields.

He described the Congress as a happy augury of the future of missionary endeavor and hoped and prayed that the joint deliberations of the Churches would be a source of new strength and inspiration in the spread of the Christian Gospel.

The Self-Starter or automatic indenter is the great exclusive feature that gives this Remington its name.

Every letter, with envelope, contains an average of 12 indented lines—the date, address, paragraphs, "yours truly," etc. Setting the carriage by hand to write these indented lines wastes more time than you realize.

The Self-Starter saves four seconds for each indent—nearly a minute for each letter—proved and tested by the watch.

Multiply this time saving by the number of letters written in a day, a month or a year and see how it figures up.

"The greatest time-saver ever placed on a typewriter" will be your verdict.

QUALIFYING ROUND FOR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP NOVEMBER 5

Baer: SAYS "BUGS"

POLO IS MOST EXCITING GAME

Makes Football Look Like An Old Lady Knitting Doilies

There is an international polo spasm down at Rumson, N. J., that isn't attracting much eyesight from the public. But only because Rumson isn't on the public's optical chart.

If they played polo at the Polo Grounds the crowds would be so fat that Stoneham would have to put in subway straps.

Polo is a combination of all games. Multiplied by six. Hoss racing, baseball, basketball, football, cricket, croquet, billiards and steeplechasing. The unmanly art of selfish defense also exerts some influence in the game.

It's a rich man's frolic. Same as yachting and drinking.

The expenses of adopting a polo stable climbs into uncomfortable figures. Polo ponies cost plenty and when they break legs they're desert for the sharks.

It requires more nerve than any American sport with the possible exception of home brewing.

If you have ever seen a rodeo out West, you have only seen a preparatory academy for polo. It seems a shame that they play out in the wealthy wilderness, but polo doesn't need the public's support.

There are only six races a day on the Belmont program. There are a hundred sprints a game down at Rumson. Every gallop winds up in a scrimmage that looks like an Old Home Week of duPont explosions.

Broken noses, splintered collarbones and lost teeth are only kindergarten business. When a pony sprains a leg they shoot him. When a player breaks an ankle, the jury is more lenient.

Milburn seems to be about the best player of today, not only in guts and ability, but also has about the best harem of hosses.

His team won by a goal, but it was a contest that would make baseball, football and boxing look like a yacht race between two washtubs.

Chinese Newspaper Regrets Non-Attention To Osaka Olympics

The next Far East rn Olympic games will be held in Japan in May of 1923. China's records at the past five meets may still be easily recalled. Last year China did not achieve an enviable record in swimming and field events. But it will be a good thing if wo would learn from our failures and go through a systematic course of preparatory exercises. But we are not aware of any intensive preparatory work being done while the Filipinos and the Japanese have already launched an elaborate program of preparation. It is high time that our athletes should do all they can in order to compete successfully at the coming Olympic games, and those in charge of the physical culture of our youths should give them the necessary encouragment and guidance.—Shun Pao

Yak-Tail Trails

As soon as they are able to waddle that far they tackle the kid in the next yurt. As they grow older they continue wrestling, are taught the fine points of the toe-hold, the half-Nelson and other wind-cutters and arm-breakers, day after day, until they acquire unusual proficiency.

At Guencher the Russian cavalcade saw their first wrestling exhibition but many times afterward along the yak-tail trail followed by Ghenghiz Ghan and his shepherd warriors they saw Mongols of all ages tussling and straining in a deadlock in front of village yurts.

Sandwiched in between the horse racing at the exhibition for the Governor of Mongolia three 'championship of the steppes' wrestling matches were held. The Mongols, stripped to the innermost cloak, are sturdy specimens of mankind, well muscled, hard as nails and agile and clever from constant practice. Eight huskies entered the ring and in line began prancing about like Pavlowa and her fawn imitators, throwing back their shaggy heads and kicking their heels in reckless abandon. After circling twice about the ring each did an extra jump and an extra kick in front of a somber Mongolian edition of Buddha and kowtowed low, chanting a prayer for the great Prince's blessing. A few more ultra-exaggerated goosesteps and they dashed at each other fiercely.

They tugged and pulled, pushed and twisted, man to man, until one fell and was declared thrown by the lama referee. Then the victor picked out another victim, and still another, until he alone remained in the ring. Each time one of the desert gladiators threw his opponent he would rush to the Buddha, thank him in effusive chants for his success, and then with a shout and kick of his heels enter the fray again. To Serge it was rough and hard. Bleeding noses decorated every wrestler before one finally emerged as the victor. Skinned shins and black-and-blue mural decorations were merely certainties of the festivities.

THE GOVERNOR'S CUMSHA

Just before the picturesque exhibition ended the Governor of Mongolia was presented with a large number of presents brought by the chiefs of the bannermen and the wealthy herders and horsemen of the vicinity. An embroidered robe, a dozen or so extra fast ponies, including the winner of one of the races that the mogul took a fancy to, halves of mutton, a few silver ornaments, an enormous wad of camel's hair enough for several classy camel's hair overcoats for even such avordupois as boasted by the Governor) and other presents were given by the chiefs and bannermen as they passed by and kowtowed.

The Governor, with a wooden smile, accepted each in person, handed it to one of his retainers and held forth his palm for the next offering. His annual visits to the yurts of the steppes was the chief benefit he derived from holding office.

As soon as the presents were presented the crowd began breaking up and riding back to their own yurts, often miles away, for Mongolia is sparsely populated and yurts and villages are scattered about on the steppes in lonesome squalor. The Russians returned to their camp for the evening meal of mutton and tea and turned in early for a good night's rest. It had been an exciting and hard day, hot and miserable, and the flies were swarming about their camp in thousands. They would have to fight for the right to sleep, as they often did during their long trek across Mongolia.

What kind of homes do the Mongolians live in? What 'furniture' do they have? Electric lights? Sewers? In the next installment of 'The Yak-Tail Trail' a description of Mongolian home life is given by the three Russian cadets on their trek across the country.

Rumanians Honor Great War Leader

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 17.—Marshal Foch and the French mission at the ceremony of the coronation of the King and Queen of Rumania received an enthusiastic reception and received the particular attention of the Royal Family.

The King, who came to meet Marshal Foch at the station, said: "I salute in you the victor on all the fronts."

Visiting Marshal Foch in his apartments the King presented him with the Grand Cordon of the Order of Carol. The Marshal and the French generals were acclaimed by high officials and peasants alike.

General Berthelot, who during the war was in command of the French military mission in Rumania, received again the welcome of 1918 when the Allies entered Bukarest after the German defeat. Marshal Foch will leave Bukarest tomorrow evening.

Before his departure he will assist at the inauguration of a memorial to the French soldiers who died in Rumania, at which the King will be present.

Rubber Growers Support New Plan

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 17.—The Council of the Rubber Growers' Association has passed a resolution strongly supporting the recommendations of the Colonial Office Committee and urging the Governments of Ceylon and Malaya to introduce legislation necessary to give effect to it as soon as possible, while pledging itself to give the Government every assistance in carrying out the scheme.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 17.—A predominant feature on the Stock Exchange yesterday was the revival of Rubber shares. Business was bigger than for a long time and in many cases prices rose substantially.

Weddings

JOYNER—POWELL
(China Press Service)

Soochow, Oct. 16—On Sunday afternoon Mr. Calvin N. Joyner and Miss Isabelle Powell were married by Dr. W. B. Nance. The wedding was solemnised at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Nance in the presence of a few friends and the representatives from the Consulate.

Miss Powell is a niece of Mrs. W. B. Nance and has been teaching in Soochow University. Her home was formerly in Dallas, Texas. Mr. Joyner is connected with the Architectural Bureau of the Southern Methodist Church. They will make their home in Soochow for the present, later they probably will be assigned to Shanghai.

HYDE—DANIELS

The marriage of Frank Harry Hyde, proprietor of the Crest Hotel, and Miss Emma Roberta Daniels, was solemnised Monday at the Union Church by Rev. A. N. Rowland, following a civil ceremony at the British Consulate-General. A reception followed at the Crest Hotel, when Maxine's orchestra was in attendance.

The bride is the grand-daughter of the late General Daniel Sickles, civil war hero and former head of the New York National Guard, and a sister of George Allen Richards of New York. She is well-known in the theatrical world of the Eastern United States having headed the Roberta Daniels Stock Company, later leaving the stage for aviation, gaining fame as a flyer and parachute jumper.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyde left for a three-weeks' trip to Peking, Harbin, Mukden and Tsingtau.

$525,000 SUIT IS ECHO OF CLOSING STOCK EXCHANGE

Liquidators Of 'International' Ask Big Sum Of Chinese

A repercussion of the recent closing of the International Gold and Silver Currency and Stock Exchange and the Far Eastern Bank by the Italian Consular authorities occurred in the Mixed Court yesterday when suit for $525,000 was brought by Dr. O. Fischer and Mr. G. Maranzana, Official Liquidators, against Liu Yu-feng, as one of the promoters of the exchange.

In the suit the Official Liquidators allege that Liu Yu-meng was one of the original promoters of the Exchange and subscribed for 35,000 shares at $50 per share, a total of $1,750,000. On September 30, 1921, they allege that Mr. Liu signed an affidavit in the Royal Italian Consulate that he had paid up $525,000 of the amount. They allege he has paid up nothing.

The Official Liquidators therefore ask judgment for the $525,000, and also ask that Mr. Liu be held responsible for the remainder of the amount, $1,125,000.

The International Exchange was closed by the Italian Consulate at the time of the closing of the Far Eastern Bank, when the Italian authorities alleged that despite the fact that the company was registered in the Italian Consulate there were no Italian interests in fact in the company.

Mr. Liu has been ordered by Italian Assessor Ferrajolo and Magistrate Li to produce security in the sum of $50,000 pending trial of the suit.

INVESTIGATION IN TOKIO 'SPY' CASE STILL CONTINUES

Action of officials of the preliminary court yesterday showed that charges of being a spy and of taking photographs in the Yokohama fortified area brought against Mr. R. M. Andrews, prominent American business man, have not been dismissed and that the investigation is still going on, says the Japan Advertiser of October 10.

Mr. Yoshida, president of the Motorboat Company, Tsukiji, from whom Mr. Andrews purchased the motorboat in which he went to Hikasi in August, when he is alleged to have taken a picture in the fortified zone, was questioned yesterday afternoon. It was the second time he has been examined by the court, as he was there for several hours Friday. Mr. Andrews has received no communication from the court since leaving there Saturday afternoon with instructions not to return unless summoned.

The Hochi published an interview with an anonymous judicial official yesterday. This official is reported to have said: "The judicial authorities are confident in their case against Mr. Andrews. There is nothing strange about the authorities attaching considerable importance to the case. Suppose a similar incident occurred in a foreign country; I have little doubt but that considirable importance would be attached to it.

"Mr. Andrews violated the laws of Japan when he ran his motor boat without a license. Moreover he committed a serious crime when he took a photograph in the strategical zone. Mr. Andrews may have been ignorant of the laws of Japan, and he may have been just joking when he took the picture.

"But these considerations do not exonerate him from the charges brought against him. I should like the people to imagine the attitude judicial authorities would take if such a case should occur in a foreign country."

Burke And America

EDMUND Burke was probably as good a choice as could have been made for the statue which delegates from the Sulgrave Institute have unveiled in Washington as part of a movement to remind Americans that not all Englishmen were hostile to the colonies at the time of the war of the Revolution.

Many Englishmen agreed with Burke, but none of them could rival him in eloquence, and his speech on conciliation has been much studied in American schools partly as a literary classic, partly as a historical document; unhappily the effect on the rising generation has sometimes been merely to reinforce the indictment against the British government. It is much more reasonable, however, to take Burke as the exponent of the wiser and more liberal opinion of the time which the foolish and autocratic government ignored.

For Burke in his earlier life was something of a liberal as well as a good deal of an idealist. His idealism he mixed with practical politics, and his speech on conciliation is no more celebrated than his classical defense of working with the party machine in his retort to a great lord who had criticised him for taking a pension. His liberalism vanished with the first whiff of the French Revolution, but even in his most reactionary vein he remained an idealist, and the most celebrated passage to be found in his magnificent prose is his eulogy on Marie Antoinette, with its lament, "The age of chivalry is gone."

No British political writer better merits study at the present time than Edmund Burke, and the Sulgrave institute does well to recall his name to the memory of the American people.

Diphtheria—How It May Be Avoided.

Diphtheria is usually contracted when the child has a cold. The cold prepares the child's system for the reception and development of the diphtheria germs. When there are cases of diphtheria in the neighborhood children that have colds should be kept at home and off the street until recovered. Give them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and they will not have to remain at home long. It also cleans out the culture beds, which form in a child's throat when it has a cold, and minimizes the risk of contracting infectious diseases.

Anecdotes Of The Famous

One day M. Clemenceau was invited to dinner by the wife of a French Senator famous for her thrift. M. Clemenceau brought a big appetite with him, but unfortunately the dinner was distinctly meagre.

Nevertheless, if the lady's food was not appeasing, she tried to make up for this by verbal cordiality, and when M. Clemenceau was about to depart she exclaimed:

"I hope you will dine with me again."

"By all means, madame," replied M. Clemenceau, "and at once, if you like!"

* * *

Sinclair Lewis, the author of "Main Street," is fond of lecturing as well as writing, and a good story he tells referred to an occasion when he was holding forth on the subject of matrimony.

"Mine has been an ideal marriage," he exclaimed (while those whose marriages had not been ideal listened with pained interest). "My wife and I share our sorrows, our joys, our ambitions, our hopes, our"——

Then a Scotsman interrupted: "What about conversation, Mr. Lewis?"

And it was reported that there was considerable silence.

* * *

When Themistocles led an army of his countrymen against their barbarian neighbors, he beheld two cocks engaging in furious combat. The spectacle was not lost upon him; he made his forces halt, and thus addressed them:

"These cocks, my gallant soldiers, are not fighting for their country, their paternal gods, nor do they endure this for the monuments of their ancestors, for their offspring, or for the sake of glory in the cause of liberty; the only motive is, that the one is heroically resolved not to yield to the other." This impressive harangue rekindled their valor, and led them to conquest.

After their decisive victories over the Persians, the Athenians decreed, by law, that one day should be set apart in every year for the public exhibition of cock-fighting at the expense of the state.

Water-Tight Worlds

Our constant tendency is toward narrowness. We drift to provincialism. We degenerate into it as a plant reverts to type.

And from provincialism come our greatest limitations and most of our delusions.

War is a gigantic outbreak of provincialism. Wars spring from race hates and hates arise from people not knowing each other.

We instinctively dislike anyone that is not like us, that is not our kind of folks.

Two half-drunken navvies were walking along the wharf. They saw a man approaching. "Who is that feller?" "I dunno. Looks like a foreigner. 'Eave a 'arf brick at 'm."

Doubtless you have often been impressed with the isolation of animal life.

The unintelligent world lives in water-tight compartments. There is a mouse world, a whole fabric of loves and hates and aspirations going on between the walls and in the cellar.

There is a horse world, and horses know nothing of the birds the fishes. The surface of the sea is like an asbestos curtain let down between two hemispheres of life. There are more living things under that surface than above it.

Yet we know nothing of the fish world. When we go into the water we drown. When they come above the water they die.

A man is more than an animal. He is a fragment of Deity that created all animals. And he should know all things, all worlds, all people. His great problem is the enlargement of his life.

The Dangerous Year

The Swedish journal "Charm" publishes an article on "The Dangerous Year of Married Life" which critics, after long study, have decided is the third. They arrived at this through study of the divorce statistics, which disclosed that a third or at least a fourth of all divorces occur in the third year of marriage. After passing the third year there is every prospect that the couple will live happily ever after.

But why is the third year the most dangerous? The experts answer that two years of romantic life are as a rule enough. The hope that the romance may be continued during the following years is erroneous, unless husband and wife are able to talk themselves into an endless romance. And to this are added practical considerations. Thus, for instance, pecuniary worries may easily become the causes of divorce, for it makes, of course, a difference whether one or two persons shall be suported.

The first child, too, often makes a difference. The child, which really should bind husband and wife to each other, often separates them. And a husband who does not possess sufficient income cannot always content himself with the wife's great interest in the child, for he realises that he no longer means everything to his wife.

This is the condition that calls for Dr. Williams' pink pills, the blood-making and nerve-restoring tonic.

Give Dr. Williams' pink pills a trial, and the first sign of new life will soon be noticed by your increased appetite. Your blood becomes enriched, it feeds and soothes the irritated nerves, sleep becomes sounder and more refreshing, your worries diminish and your work seems lighter.

Northcliffisms

Thinking over the great career of Lord Northcliffe which has just come to a close, one can note five significant things, says an American Exchange.

1.—He was never elected to anything. Whatever place or power he wanted he went and got it. He was a pure product of competition in a free democracy.

2.—He was a sample of the kind of great man which democracy produces, depending not upon pull or influence or privilege, but simply upon his ability to serve the people in a way that pleases them.

3.—He stuck close to personalities and had little use for general ideas in his newspapers. He realised that the reader is concerned most of all with himself and not with generalities.

4.—He was true to himself. He believed in himself. He trusted himself. His success, therefore, was his own, just as his mistakes were peculiarly his own.

5.—He gave the people what they wanted. He had no intellectual snobbery and did not think that he knew what the people wanted better than they knew themselves.

These traits are worth thinking about.

A Warning: Two Planetary Conjunctions

BY EDGAR LUCIEN LARKIN
Director of Lowe Observatory

The professional fakers, sinister prophets of evil, are at work with renewed activity. About the middle of May I began to receive the usual grist of letters anxiously inquiring if earthquakes, cyclones, floods and "tidal" waves were to come during this Summer and Autumn, 1922, owing to positions of the planets in the same general direction from the earth.

Visitors in the observatory have been alarmed, and in the city on cars, in hotels, people rush up in distressing nervous excitement, making inquiry: "What is to happen?" "Will Mars cause another war?"

Here are facts: Mars passed its nearest approach to the earth at this opposition at 5 p.m., June 19, mean solar time in Washington. Still the earth and Mars are getting on as usual.

* * *

On August the 15th one of the most beautiful scenes in nature occurrred—the conjunction of Venus with Saturn. They appeared in the great telescope side by side. All could see them with the unaided eye; but in the telescope the great rings of Saturn and its moons were observed.

On August 28 Jupiter and Venus were in conjunction.

Their conjunctions were predicted to occur, with an accuracy down to seconds, 4 years ago by the staff of computers in the U. S. Nautical Almanac office in Washington. Now, in the twentieth century, a century of science, polished and insidious scoundrels prey upon their ignorant dupes and wring from them vast sums of money. I have their circulars sent up here by those to whom they were mailed.

* * *

One faker made a mistake and sent his circulars to my business address in Los Angeles but not one ever mails these fearfully deceptive circulars up to the observatory. If the planets failed to come to conjunction as predicted by the mathematicians, every astronomer in the world would be researching to find the cause. I repeat the warning, and beg that all these circulars of expert calamity howlers be burned. Think of the crime of frightening people on account of a beautiful conjunction of planets.

Blood Poisoning

Yet Another Grand Recovery

Our Portrait is of Mr. WILLIAM HARBORNE, of 6, Railway Road, Perry Bar, Birmingham, England, who writes:

"About two years ago I met with rather a bad accident. My arm was cut severely, and I had to have it stitched at the hospital. This caused me six weeks' absence from work, and after resuming my duties for one week I broke out all over my body with huge boils. Again I went to the Hospital, and was treated for Blood Poisoning; this happened on three successive occasions, until I began to think I should never be cured. Then I gave Clarke's Blood Mixture a trial, and the first bottle or two seemed to be driving out the poison, so I persevered, and after taking ten bottles I was cured. It is now over twelve months since I left off taking your Clarke's Blood Mixture, and I have seen no signs of any further blood disorder."

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. Pleasant to take and free from anything injurious.

About Church Steeples And Stars

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
Eminent Astronomer and Authority On Subjects Of Scientific Interest

"Can you explain the action of a plumb-bob hung from the top of a church steeple? At 9 o'clock in the morning a mark was placed at a point on the roof which indicated plumb point. At 3 o'clock the point of the bob had moved three inches. I am a carpenter and would appreciate an article in explanation of this happening. Personally I did not believe this until the fact was corroborated by a skilled carpenter.—A. J. W., Peekskill, N. Y."

The motion of the steeple is due to expansion under the heat of the sun, causing one side to be be longer than the other, and thus producing an inclination away from the expanded side. Different substances have different ratios, or "coefficients," of linear expansion, but you do not tell what the steeple in question is made of.

The coefficient of iron is about one 166,000th per degree Fahrenheit, of wood about one 500,000th, of masonry about one 333,000th. Between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., the direction of inclination, following the sun, would swing around from say east to west.

Your measurement, therefore, represents double the radius of the semi-circular curve described by plumb-bob in the course of six hours. The angle of deflection of the axis of the steeple would, then, correspond to a horizontal displacement of an inch and a half, and assuming that the height of the point of suspension was 100 feet above the roof, the angle would be almost four and three-tenths minutes of arc, far too small a departure from verticality to be noticed except by careful measurement.

All lofty structures exhibit a similar deflection due to expansion of the most heated side. I have not at hand, in the place where I am writing, the statistics of the measurements that have been made with reference to this phenomenon as it affects constructions like the Washington Monument, the Bunker Hill Monument, the masonary towers of the Brooklyn Bridge, etc., but you can find some of them in descriptions of these structures.

The property of expansion with increase of temperature has to be taken into account in the construction of long steel or iron bridges and its effects are allowed for by sliding joints, which take up the linear expansion and thus prevent buckling.

Of course a tall structure, like a church tower, or a "skyscraper," is also subject to deflection under the pressure of high winds. In this case the motion, unlike that due to unequal heating, is vibratory. The vibration arises from both the elasticity of the material and the variability of the wind, which is always more or less gusty, and not the less so when it is very violent.

"I am having an argument about a star I saw Sunday night, August 20, about 9 o'clock, and also the following night the same time. It is very bright and is just hanging right over us. Can you tell me it that's a planet or a star, and how many million miles it is from the earth?—J. R., Bronx, New York."

The only very bright celestial object that could be said to "hang right over" New York at 9 o'clock about August 20 was the star, Vega, or Alpha Lyrae, the brilliant gem of the constellation Lyra, one of the brightest stars in the northern hemisphere of the heavens. Its distance is not less than 125 million-million miles, or about 1,344,000 times the distance of the sun from the earth. If we were as near to it as we are to the sun it would probably appear a hundred times as bright as the sun.

There was no planet anywhere near the overhead point as seen from any part of the United States at the time mentioned. Mars was far down near the southern horizon, and Jupiter and Venus were glowing over in the western part of the sky. No planet ever goes very close to the zenith as seen from latitudes near 40 degrees, although within the tropics they are sometimes visible overhead.

Most persons are very inaccurate in their judgment of the position of a celestial object when its elevation exceeds 45 degrees above the horizon. They are apt to think that it is "right overhead"—i.e., in the zenith—when it is really many degrees below that point. In the northern part of the United States the North Star, or Polaris, is about 40 degrees above the horizon and 50 degrees below the zenith. This may serve as a guide in learning to estimate altitudes in the sky.

The celestial equator crosses the meridian, or north-and-south line, at an elevation of 50 degrees when viewed from latitude 40 degrees north. At this time of the year there are no very conspicuous stars visible in the evening that lie close to the equator, but the first magnitude star Altair, which lies southeast of Vega and south of the Northern Cross, is less than nine degrees above or north of the equator.

Household Hints

Left-over bread and butter or sandwiches prepared overnight will stay perfectly fresh and moist if placed between two plates, and then wrapped in a cloth which has been dipped in cold water and wrung out.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"Your preparation known as Castoria I have used for years in children's complaints and I have found nothing better."
JOHN J. LEFFA, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

"I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."
A. F. PRELER, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"For several years I recommended your 'Castoria' and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., New York City.

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, laxative effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD PARRISH, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."
VICTOR H. COFFMAN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."
J. A. PARKER, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

RARE POSTAGE STAMPS

Except in the case of a few very valuable lots, where a reasonable reserve has been specified, there is no reserve whatever. We insist on reserves being stated, because it is not fair to the buyers that they should be kept in ignorance of such reserves. It would be misleading our clients if it was stated "entirely without reserve", when perhaps, unknown to us, the owner is present in the room running up the lots till the desired point has been reached. This is what we want to avoid. Neither is it fair to us wasting our time on lots which will be withdrawn We want to be fair both to our clients and to the sellers.

"Theodora"

The Loves of Theodora, the greatest Byzantine Empress is one of the greatest spectacles ever attempted by motion picture producers. Her rise from circus performer to consort of Justinian, one of the greatest of the Augustans, is graphically portrayed by a large cast of Italian players on the shores of the Adriatic. How the woman triumphs over the empress is the basic theme which in its universal appeal touches all classes of society and weaves together all the elements of powerful drama. The film is now being shown at the Olympic.

The Union Cinematographica Italiana which sponsors the present screen masterpiece has achieved many former successes. The greatest predecessor was probably Cabiria, in which the giant Maciste played the title role. In Theodora the same photography is utilised with amazing results, particularly in tricks of double exposures. The clear air of Southern Italy seems ideal for photographic work and the camera man has not overlooked a single detail in making Theodora a truly great work of art pictorially.

It is unfortunate however that both in the cutting and titling greater continuity of thought has not been preserved. The program apologises for occasional jumpy action by stating that frequently whole sequences had to be omitted in the final editing since otherwise the film would have run to fifteen or more reels. The present performance is eleven reels in length and requires about two full hours to show.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

October 18, 1922

Spot and forward bar silver were each done 3-16d in London yesterday. The New York price declined to 66⅝ cents and the London-New York cross rate improved to 445⅜.

Our official sterling rate here today was dropped to 3-3½, the Gold Dollar rate to 73¼, the Yen rate raised to 66 and the other rates changed accordingly.

Our market was steady to firm throughout the morning, the lowest rates at which business was done was 3-3⅞ for Sterling and 74 for Gold Dollars.

The highest rates were 3-4⅛ and 74 9-16 respectively. While the market at times eased off somewhat, there were at all times good sellers at these lower rates and even when the market was strongest there were good buyers at the higher rates.

The market closed slightly easier with buyers and sellers of Sterling at 3-4 for any delivery, and sellers of Gold Dollars at 74¼ for October-November delivery and 74⅜ for forward delivery, with buyers at ⅛ point above these rates.

There were sellers of Yen at the close at 65 and buyers at 64⅞ for November-December. Banks were quoting 3-4¾ for Sterling bills, 75¾ for Gold Dollar bills and 1020 for Franc bills.

China again sold silver in London yesterday and India Bazaars bought, the market closing uncertain. New York report their market as steady with buyers at the official rate.
